

Volunteers Wanted

Water UCI Challenge

2017-18 Middle School Conservation Project

Water UCI is partnering with local middle schools to host a conservation contest.

UCI student volunteers will partner with local middle school science classes to teach students about the California drought. Volunteers will help students develop water conservation ideas and turn those ideas into presentations to be given at UCI in May 2018. Volunteer for a single day or for as many as you like.

Volunteers Will:

- ✓ Learn About California Drought
- ✓ Develop Teaching Skills
- ✓ Gain Volunteer Experience

How to Get Involved:

Please email Shannon Roback at sroback@uci.edu

Deadline: November 1, 2017

Volunteer Program Details

Who: UCI Graduate and Undergraduate Students - Any Major

What: UCI volunteers will be paired with a middle school science class from Irvine Unified and Newport-Mesa School Districts to help develop conservation ideas with students.

When: Select days in the 2017-18 academic year.

Where: Middle School classrooms in Orange County

