

Department of Spanish and Portuguese
University of California, Irvine

Presents

Diversity Alumni Lecture Series

País mío, vení: Home and Belonging in Post-Conflict Central America

YVETTE APARICIO
Grinnell College

Yvette Aparicio (PhD UCI 2000) is Professor of Spanish and Latin American Studies at Grinnell College. At Grinnell, she teaches contemporary Latin American literature, Latin American Studies and Spanish. Her book, Post-Conflict Central American Literature: Searching for Home and Longing to Belong, was published in 2013 by Bucknell UP and Rowman & Littlefield. Currently she is working on articles on lo cursi in contemporary Central American literature as well as on Salvadoran food and cultural identity.

Humanities Hall 344
Monday, May 16, 2016
5:00 – 7:00 pm