

FILM FOR CHANGE:

Practicing Community Based Media

Asian Am 163/
F&M 130

Tuesday
April 15
2-3:20 PM
HICF 100K

ALL ARE WELCOME

Guest Speaker:

Gena Hamamoto

is an independent film producer and media arts educator. From incarcerated youth to Bangladeshi high school students living in Koreatown, to senior filmmakers, Gena has had the pleasure and privilege of working for media programs with diverse communities of all ages and skill levels throughout Los Angeles. She discovered community-based filmmaking as a graduate student in the UCLA Center for Ethno Communications program, where she currently works as Assistant Director. She produced her first feature narrative film, THE CRUMBLES, which is currently being distributed on Amazon and Vimeo On Demand. Gena is an alumna of UCI's Asian American Studies Department.