What is the Future of Asian American Activism?

Featuring Professor Jennifer Lee (Sociology) and Professor Judy Tzu-Chun Wu (Asian American Studies)
Facilitated by The-An Hoang-Nguyen (UCI Law 2L)
Introductory Remarks by Professor Stephen Lee

Asian Americans are the fastest growing racial minority population in the country. Much of this growth stems from migration. Recent studies show that three out of four Asian Americans were born outside of the United States and that more migrants come to the United States from Asia and the Pacific Islands than from any other part of the world. What does this rapid growth mean for where they will align themselves on public policies like affirmative action? To what extent are Asian Americans joining other groups and to what extent are they striking out on their own? In short: where will Asian Americans position themselves in the U.S. hierarchy?
