

Ac Eng 29: Thesis/Dissertation Writing for Graduate Students

OPEN TO STUDENTS
FROM ALL
LANGUAGE
BACKGROUNDS!

AE 29 (Thesis/Dissertation Writing for Graduate Students) is designed to help graduate students in the preparation of a thesis/dissertation (or proposal).

In this course, students will:

- ▶ learn how to plan and structure a thesis/dissertation project
- ▶ understand the focuses and goals of different chapters
- ▶ practice different ways of integrating sources to avoid plagiarism
- ▶ receive individualized feedback through one-on-one writing tutorials

This course is for graduate students from any discipline and would be most helpful for those who are in the process of preparing a thesis/dissertation (or proposal).

COURSE OFFERING FOR WINTER 2022:

20187 Sok, S. Wed 9:00-10:50am

Dr. Sarah Sok is an Assistant Director of the Program in Global Languages & Communication. She received her Ed.D. in Applied Linguistics from Columbia University and has experience teaching writing to graduate students at Columbia University and UC Irvine. She has published in major journals in the field of applied linguistics.

FOR COURSE QUESTIONS, CONTACT HUM-GLC@UCI.EDU.