BETWEEN TIDES

Filmmaker Masa Fox will present his 2018 documentary film Between Tides, which follows the multi-ethnic Bonin Islanders who grew up on an island in the Pacific Ocean as Japanese nationals under a U.S. Navy occupation following the Second World War.

Having obtained at least a narrow view of American life that was complicated by their own mixed heritage, these islanders faced the painful task of having to accept the reversion of the islands to Japan in 1968. Between Tides explores the stories of a postwar community torn apart and re-bonded by history.
